Industrial Revolution in Britain

Overpopulation

Look at each of these photographs and write your reactions. What do you see? How do the photographs make you feel? Do you think these problems are solved in today's society?

Because so many people were moving to cities so quickly, there weren't enough houses for everybody. Many people lived in apartments that were very crowded, and many others were homeless.

Jacob Riis was a photographer and journalist who lived after the Industrial Revolution, but the overpopulation he captured was a result of the Industrial Revolution. His photography is powerful!

Great Britain and the Industrial Revolution

There are reasons why the Industrial Revolution began in England during the last quarter of the 1700's. In the earlier centuries, England had become the leading commercial power in the world. By the early 18th century, British trade overseas made England wealthy. During the wars of the century, especially the Seven Years War, England gained control of many overseas colonies. By mid-century, one of England's primary trade rivals, France, had lost control of India and Canada to the British. English sea captains commanded great trading ships, which could be found all over the world.

A fish is an animal which lives and breathes in water. All fish are vertebrates (have a backbone) and most breathe through gills and have fins and scales.

FACTS ABOUT FISH

- Fish make up about half of all known vertebrate species. Fish have been on the earth for more than 500 million years. Fish were well established long before dinosaurs roamed the earth.
- The 25,000 known species of fish are divided into three main groups. There are three classes of fish: jawless, cartilaginous, and bony. All fish have a backbone.
- It is estimated that there may still be over 15,000 fish species that have not yet been identified. There are more species of fish than all the species of amphibians, reptiles, birds and mammals combined.
- Some fish like sharks don't breathe on air bladder to help keep them afloat and must enter some continuously or rest on the bottom. Some species of fish can fly (glide) others can skip along the surface and others can even climb rock.
- Fish have a specialized sense organ called the lateral line which works much like radar and helps them navigate in dark or murky water.
